Summary

I graduated in june 2019 from IT business master, I studied several modules between computer science and business administration for example databases, information systems methodologies, E-commerce, digital knowledge economy and project management.

Previously I've done many projects in my studying. however, my best achievements were my dissertation where I deeply discussed Facebook user's behavior towards their privacy after a certain event that hazards their information: Cambridge Analytica Scandal and effects their opinion in USA election for Donald tramp.

Currently, I'm looking for a professional environment where I can apply what I learned and gain real-life knowledge from experts in my field and secure my future to become the best version of myself as always hoped for.
